Major Data Source: Triangle Sector Intelligence

The Renouncer saw significant improvement to it's initial design shortly after arriving in the IKS. The Renouncer had been passed over for several upgrades during its operations in the Empire. IKS personnel fitted the ship with an enlarged KIE-3 impulse drive, significantly improving the power reserve and sublight capability of the Renouncer. The primary weapons were immediately upgraded and a torpedo was added.

The Renouncer participated in several ground operation as the IKS continued to expand within the Triangle. She would also spend a significant amount of time behind Romulan lines, gathering data. Unfortunately, this would prove to be her undoing in 2283 when she was caught shadowing a Romulan battlecruiser. Despite a valiant effort, the Renouncer was destroyed.
